

<sup>1</sup>So I returned, and considered all the oppressions that are done under the sun: and behold the tears of such as were oppressed, and they had no comforter; and on the side of their oppressors there was power; but they had no comforter.<sup>2</sup>Wherefore I praised the dead which are already dead more than the living which are yet alive.<sup>3</sup>Yea, better is he than both they, which hath not yet been, who hath not seen the evil work that is done under the sun.<sup>4</sup>Again, I considered all travail, and every right work, that for this a man is envied of his neighbour. This is also vanity and vexation of spirit.<sup>5</sup>The fool foldeth his hands together, and eateth his own flesh.<sup>6</sup>Better is an handful with quietness, than both the hands full with travail and vexation of spirit.<sup>7</sup>Then I returned, and I saw vanity under the sun.<sup>8</sup>There is one alone, and there is not a second; yea, he hath neither child nor brother: yet is there no end of all his labour; neither is his eye satisfied with riches; neither saith he, For whom do I labour, and bereave my soul of good? This is also vanity, yea, it is a sore travail.<sup>9</sup>Two are better than one; because they have a good reward for their labour.<sup>10</sup>For if they fall, the one will lift up his fellow: but woe to him that is alone when he falleth; for he hath not another to help him up.<sup>11</sup>Again, if two lie together, then they have heat: but how can one be warm alone?<sup>12</sup>And if one prevail against him, two shall withstand him; and a threefold cord is not quickly broken.<sup>13</sup>Better is a poor and a wise child than an old and foolish king, who will no more be admonished.<sup>14</sup>For out of prison he
